WHAT IS FLASHING?

Flashing refers to the covering and fitting of critical areas on the house with metal to protect it from moisture and mechanical stress.

WHY AND WHERE IS FLASHING NECESSARY?

Regardless of which materials your house is clad with, transitions and connections and terminations (interfaces) on the roof and façade require sealing and protection.

The basic task of flashing is to protect these critical areas on your house from water ingress.

WHAT ARE THE CRITICAL SPOTS ON YOUR HOUSE?

All areas on the roof and façade coverings, where the house is not adequately protected from moisture ingress. For example, at transitions in pitch or of different materials, at connections and closures, at the edge of the roof or at the base of the façade.

But also the area around a chimney or skylight requires professional flashing.

In short: All corners and edges of your house!
